GLOBALIST

A visual identity for the unnamed humanitarian statesman. Ex-militant. UN spokesperson. Foundation builder.

WEATHERED — RESOLUTE — GENEROUS

COLOUR

Pulled from the coats, the wool, the plaster walls — and the single decisive note of oxblood.

01 · PRIMARY

FIELD OLIVE

#4A4F35

The signature coat green. Authority, military root.

02 · SECONDARY

SAGE DRAB

#8A8B6C

Lighter olive / khaki — the trench tones.

03 · GROUND

BONE CREAM

#EDE4D1

Backgrounds, garments, breathing room.

04 · HIGHLIGHT

PLASTER

#F7F5F0

Pure highlight, negative space, gallery walls.

05 · TISSUE

WARM BEIGE

#C9B79C

The aged studio backdrop — connective tissue.

06 · WEIGHT

INK BLACK

#1A1814

Type, boots, weight, gravitas.

07 · SIGNAL

OXBLOOD

#7E1C20

Accent only. The single human pulse of colour.

Oxblood is never more than ~5% of any layout. It is the heartbeat, not the body — a line, a dot, a pocket square. Never a field.

TYPE

A towering condensed face for the name; a refined serif for the testimony.

DISPLAY

Anton · all caps · tight tracking · heavy weight. Never timid.

THE GLOBALIST

EDITORIAL

Newsreader · serif body · old-world authority. UN white paper crossed with a fashion editorial.

He learned the names of the dead before he learned the language of the room. That is the order he keeps. The foundation is not a podium; it is a hand, extended, in a place where hands are scarce.

CAPTION · DATA

Inter · light · wide tracking · small. Tags, locations, dates, lower-thirds.

The contrast — towering condensed caps against quiet serif text — is the brand. Big presence, measured words.

THE MARK

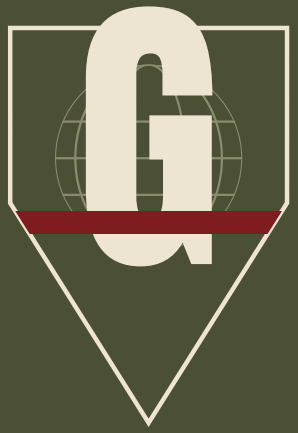

FIELD CREST

A shield, a latitude globe, a heavy G crossed by one oxblood bar. The avatar, the merch, the video sign-off — holds at small sizes.

OFFICE OF THE FOUNDER · ON THE RECORD

We do not arrive with cameras. We arrive with water, and we stay until the road is open.

The Foundation was built on a single principle: say the hard thing plainly, then offer a hand. For fifteen years that order has not changed. We report from the ground, not from the podium — and we measure the work in names, not numbers.
